

Cecilia M. Villas Bôas de Almeida is a Professor of the Graduate Program in Production Engineering of Paulista University – UNIP Paulista University, São Paulo, Brazil. She develops research on Cleaner Production and Industrial Ecology, analyzing and developing concepts, tools and techniques for the calculation of environmental indicators and indicators of sustainability. She acts as a researcher at the LaPROMA (Laboratory of Production and Environment) of the Paulista University - UNIP, and is also guest Editor of the Journal of Cleaner Production for three Special Issues on “Advances in Cleaner Production” (January 2010). Graduated in Chemical Engineering from Mackenzie University (1983), Master of Chemistry (Physical Chemistry), University of São Paulo (1995) and Ph.D. in Chemistry (Physical Chemistry), University of São Paulo (1999).